Topic: Funding for Startups – Insights in Venture Companies and their strategies

VCs are no longer a secret type of people – it's quite the opposite nowadays! In a change of dogma where not only startups have to apply for money but VCs have to become more visible to attract new companies they are open to talk details – when it comes to their funding circles, strategies and most potential markets. This tour is dedicated to everyone who is interested in VC money and curious about current agendas and markets. Learn from the best and use the opportunity of personal talks with experienced investment managers and principals.
